Accreditation — What It Means For You

Your DBA carries the accreditations shown on the previous page. Here's what each one means in practice, and how you can verify it yourself.

Accreditation / Framework	What It Means For You
Malta Further & Higher Education Authority (MFHEA)	Malta's national authority for higher-education quality assurance. Its Licence No. 2024-032 authorises EAI to award this DBA at MQF/EQF Level 8, and MFHEA enforces the European Standards and Guidelines for Quality Assurance (ESG 2015).
European Qualifications Framework (EQF) / Malta Qualifications Framework (MQF)	Places the DBA at Level 8 on the Malta register — the highest level in the European framework — and makes credits earned under EAI's approved curriculum framework portable across EU/EHEA institutions, subject to each receiving institution's own credit-recognition policy.
European Higher Education Area (EHEA) & Bologna Process	Malta has been an EHEA member since 2010. The Bologna Process harmonises degree structures and quality assurance across 49 EHEA countries, so your qualification structure is recognised internationally, not idiosyncratic.
Lisbon Recognition Convention (ETS No. 165)	A treaty recognised by roughly 57 signatory countries that obliges recognition of your qualification across borders — relevant if you relocate or work internationally after graduating.
ENIC-NARIC Networks	EAI advises that its MFHEA-accredited qualifications are eligible for comparability review through the ENIC-NARIC network of national recognition centres. The outcome of any individual assessment is decided case-by-case by the receiving country's own ENIC-NARIC office — BIPE and EAI cannot guarantee a specific recognition outcome in advance.
World Education Services (WES)	EAI is a registered WES Digital Partner, so your verified academic records can be transmitted directly to WES for independent credential evaluation. WES determines the specific degree-level equivalency for each individual applicant; neither EAI nor BIPE can guarantee a particular equivalency or immigration/points-based outcome.
Apostille (1961 Hague Convention) & notarisation	Your diplomas and transcripts can be authenticated by a Maltese public notary and apostilled for international legal use — useful for internationally mobile executives.
Verify This Programme & BIPE's Role	MFHEA Licence No. 2024-032 — confirm EAI's licensed status and this DBA's record yourself via the official DBA record or EAI's provider listing . BIPE Consulting Ltd is EAI's Education Support Services Institutional Partner (ESSIP): BIPE handles promotion, applicant guidance, admissions facilitation and learner support; EAI Malta retains sole academic authority for admission, curriculum, assessment, certification and the final award.
